Bainbridge Island, WA. The Bainbridge Island Community Endowment has changed its name to Bainbridge Community Foundation. Since its inception five years ago, the organization has operated as a community foundation, and the new name more accurately describes the breadth of the Foundation's activities.

"We are incredibly proud of what we've done in our first five years as an organization," said Larry Mills, President of the Foundation. "Because of the generosity of our donors, we have been able to increase significantly the number and amounts of grants to nonprofit organizations serving Bainbridge residents. We hope to continue to be the vehicle for donors to leave a legacy by providing long-term support for the needs of our growing and dynamic community."

The Bainbridge Community Foundation should not be confused with the organization that previously operated as "The Bainbridge Foundation" in conducting the annual Bainbridge Island One Call For All fundraising campaign. The Bainbridge Community Foundation receives, invests, and makes grants from significant charitable gifts from community-minded donors.

The Bainbridge Community Foundation plans to launch a new and improved website in early November at www.bainbridgecommunityfoundation.org. Until then, those interested in learning more about the Bainbridge Community Foundation may visit the current website at www.bicommunityendowment.org or call 206-842-0433.

Bainbridge Community Foundation

Building the future of our community through encouraging philanthropy today.

The Bainbridge Community Foundation was established in 2001 to help improve the quality of life in the Bainbridge community for years to come. In addition to its unrestricted fund, The Bainbridge Fund, the Foundation has 17 other funds created by donors. The Foundation's assets have grown to over $3 million in its first five years. The Bainbridge Community Foundation is a supporting organization of The Seattle Foundation.
